

Spending Pocket Money

Many students have pocket money. How do they spend it?

Most students spend their pocket money on games, hobbies, food and drinks and some save it for future use.

For studies, they spend the money on buying books, storybooks, notebooks and reference books. Some of them buy stationery such as pencils, colour pens, rulers and erasers. I think it is good for their studies as long as they do not buy too many.

For games and hobbies, they spend the money on buying electronic games, board games and card games. Some of the games are expensive. They should spend it wisely. Others spend the money on their hobbies such as joining piano classes, drawing classes and dancing classes.

For food and drinks, many students spend their money on buying fast food. They buy hamburgers and French fries at the McDonald's or KFC. Some of them buy snacks, potato chips, ice cream, candies and cola.

In conclusion, I think we should spend our pocket money wisely and form a habit of saving some money for future use. We can also donate some money to charity.
